

Who's in Danger?

Can You Guess Which Animals Are Affected by Waste?!

NAME: _____

DATE: _____

- I live in the ocean and often mistake plastic bags for my favorite food—jellyfish. Many of my kind die because of this mistake. Who am I?

Answer:

.....

- I scavenge for food in landfills, but when I eat plastic or toxic waste, I fall sick and sometimes die. My bald head helps me stay clean, but waste is still a big problem for me. Who am I?

Answer:

.....

- I live in the mountains, but when tourists leave behind glass bottles and plastic wrappers, I sometimes eat them. This makes my stomach hurt and can even kill me. Who am I?

Answer:

.....

- I fly high and love to nest on tall buildings, but humans feed me grains on roads, making my population explode. Too many of us cause health problems for both animals and people. Who am I?

Answer:

.....

- I swim in lakes and rivers, but when people dump detergent and chemicals into the water, I struggle to breathe and sometimes die. Who am I?

Answer:

.....

- I am a large animal that eats grass, but sometimes I chew on plastic waste mixed with food. It blocks my stomach, and I can die from it. Who am I?

Answer:

.....

Skills: Spelling, Problem-Solving, Cognitive, Perseverance and Focus, Knowledge Acquisition, Analytical Thinking, Cultural Literacy

Who's in Danger?

Can You Guess Which Animals Are Affected by Waste?

NAME: _____

DATE: _____

- I live near the sea and dive into the water for fish. But when I get caught in discarded fishing nets, I can't escape and drown. Who am I?

Answer:

.....

- I love to dig through trash in search of food, but eating leftover human food and plastic has made my species unhealthy. Who am I?

Answer:

.....

- I glide over water, but when oil spills and chemicals enter my habitat, my feathers get coated in the sticky mess, and I can't fly. Who am I?

Answer:

.....

- I live in forests, but when people throw glass bottles and waste, I sometimes step on them and hurt my paws. Who am I?

Answer:

.....

- I am a small animal that loves running through the trees, but when people leave behind chewing gum or sticky trash, I can get trapped. Who am I?

Answer:

.....

- I live in the city and love to eat leftovers from garbage bins, but sharp metal waste and broken glass often hurt me. Who am I?

Answer:

.....

- I am a reptile that lays my eggs in the sand, but when the beaches are covered in trash, my babies struggle to reach the sea. Who am I?

Answer:

.....

Skills: Spelling, Problem-Solving, Cognitive, Perseverance and Focus, Knowledge Acquisition, Analytical Thinking, Cultural Literacy

Answer Key

- I live in the ocean and often mistake plastic bags for my favorite food—jellyfish. Many of my kind die because of this mistake. Who am I?

Answer: Sea Turtle

- I scavenge for food in landfills, but when I eat plastic or toxic waste, I fall sick and sometimes die. My bald head helps me stay clean, but waste is still a big problem for me. Who am I?

Answer: Vulture

- I live in the mountains, but when tourists leave behind glass bottles and plastic wrappers, I sometimes eat them. This makes my stomach hurt and can even kill me. Who am I?

Answer: Himalayan Black Bear

- I fly high and love to nest on tall buildings, but humans feed me grains on roads, making my population explode. Too many of us cause health problems for both animals and people. Who am I?

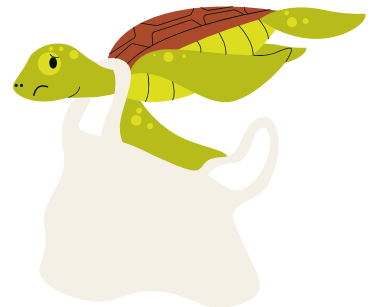

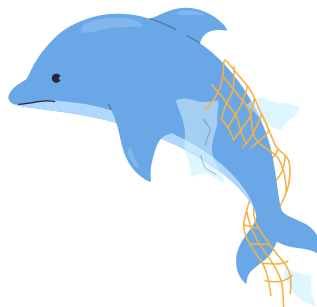

Answer: Pigeon

- I swim in lakes and rivers, but when people dump detergent and chemicals into the water, I struggle to breathe and sometimes die. Who am I?

Answer: Fish

- I am a large animal that eats grass, but sometimes I chew on plastic waste mixed with food. It blocks my stomach, and I can die from it. Who am I?

Answer: Cow

Skills: Spelling, Problem-Solving, Cognitive, Perseverance and Focus, Knowledge Acquisition, Analytical Thinking, Cultural Literacy

Answer Key

- I live near the sea and dive into the water for fish. But when I get caught in discarded fishing nets, I can't escape and drown. Who am I?

Answer: Dolphin

- I love to dig through trash in search of food, but eating leftover human food and plastic has made my species unhealthy. Who am I?

Answer: Stray Dog

- I glide over water, but when oil spills and chemicals enter my habitat, my feathers get coated in the sticky mess, and I can't fly. Who am I?

Answer: Pelican

- I live in forests, but when people throw glass bottles and waste, I sometimes step on them and hurt my paws. Who am I?

Answer: Leopard

- I am a small animal that loves running through the trees, but when people leave behind chewing gum or sticky trash, I can get trapped. Who am I?

Answer: Squirrel

- I live in the city and love to eat leftovers from garbage bins, but sharp metal waste and broken glass often hurt me. Who am I?

Answer: Crow

- I am a reptile that lays my eggs in the sand, but when the beaches are covered in trash, my babies struggle to reach the sea. Who am I?

Answer: Olive Ridley Turtle

Skills: Spelling, Problem-Solving, Cognitive, Perseverance and Focus, Knowledge Acquisition, Analytical Thinking, Cultural Literacy